

DESOLATION ON NIGERIA

When the colonial masters created out Nigeria as a political entity, they lift sky high believing in their ignorance that they have created a nation, they don't realize that what they have call a nation is an incomputable tribe element held together. The country Nigeria as a nation could only exist in the imagination of the British colonialise who created it. In this book I will attempt to show that the British knew that the nation Nigeria which they have created and named Nigeria on the advice of Mrs. Flora Sure was obviously not going to survival as a nation of their dream.

Dr. Nnamdi Azikwe along with Albert Marculy who championed the struggle for independent believed that Nigeria could be a nation of great hope. Little did they know that the Hausa Fulani will not give Nigeria a chance to survival as a democratic nation. In this easy I will try to show that those who fought for independence truly believed that they have a nation. Unfortunately, while Azikwe and Awololo were fighting for a united Nigeria Amadu Bello and his own groups were fighting for a Nigeria that they could dominate and rule as a voucher to Hausa Fulani oligarchy.

The history of Nigeria has been the history of the struggle of the Hausa Fulani oligarchy to colonise Nigeria, the struggle of Ibos of the East to accept their independence, the struggle of the Yourbas that makeup the otherwise what is called Oduduwa state to accept their own independence. The Niger Delta have become the golden goods that laid the golden eggs, have of recent demonstrated that without the Niger Delta Nigeria will find it difficult to survival as an economy entity. I will in this easy attempt to show the defective nation of the colonial mission and I will at the end show that if Nigeria could remain as a nation, some unshaking imperative must take place, prefrontal remark is to introduce an a nation called Nigeria.
